

Troops Rout Bonus Automobile Collision Army, 1 Dead, Scores On the Saugerties Road Hurt, Camps Fired

F. S. Army Summoned After Police Efforts to Carry Out Demand for Evacuation of Federal Property Precipitated a Riot.

Washington, July 29 (AP).—The night of the United States Army, summoned by President Hoover, today at last had smashed the tight grip held on Washington for months past by thousands of bonus-demanding veterans.

Mute evidence of a struggle that has no identical parallel in American annals, four war-scarred areas mark the once-populous encampments of the bonus expeditionary force; one ex-soldier lies dead; scores are nursing injuries.

The troops, their major task done last evening and night, remained in command. The veterans, driven forth by tear gas and torch applied to their crude shelters, clustered in small, questioning groups or headed from the city seeking to reorganize elsewhere.

The use of troops—cavalry, infantry, tanks and machine gun corps—was ordered by the president after police efforts to carry out a demand for immediate evacuation of federal property had precipitated a riot. In it bricks and slabs of concrete flew, and finally shots were fired by police as they found themselves almost overpowered by the angry mobs of ex-soldiers. One man, William Huskha, 37, Chicago veteran, was killed.

The District of Columbia authorities, certain that more bloodshed would be the only result if the police pressed at their task, turned to the White House. The president summoned cabinet aides and an order went forth bringing in from Fort Myer, Virginia, nearby, 300 cavalrymen, a battalion of 350 infantry. They assembled near the White House and then marched down Pennsylvania avenue to the first of the bonus army camp, almost in the shadow of the Capitol.

Use Tear Gas Bombs.

After a pause to give the hundreds of veterans there a chance to move out peacefully, the khaki line, steel-helmeted and in full battle equipment, moved forward with tear gas bombs and fixed bayonets. The cavalry with drawn sabers pressed the charge, and the job was quickly done despite resistance.

Without respite, the attacking troops moved on and cleared two other camps in the city and then swooped down on the largest of all, at Anacostia, six miles from downtown Washington.

The withering combination of fire and tear gas left the veterans leaderless, demoralized and without shelter. They spent the night in open fields, parks and wherever they could find a haven. Many started for home.

Walter W. Waters of Portland, Oregon, commander-in-chief of the bonus expeditionary force, was not at the Anacostia camp when it was emptied and consumed by flames. There were reports that he had left, telling some of his followers to meet him at Johnstown, Pennsylvania.

Earlier, he issued a statement saying "no matter what may happen from now on the B. E. F. will carry on. We have gone too far to quit."

The operations of the military began in mid-afternoon and were climaxed when the last veteran was driven behind bayonets from the Anacostia camp beneath a starless midnight sky.

The torch was applied to three of the encampments, and fire razed the shanties and huts in which the veterans had been living. Witnesses disagreed as to whether the military or the veterans started the fire at Anacostia. In the others the soldiers did the work.

The action of the chief executive was strongly supported today by General Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, who had led the march on Anacostia.

MacArthur issued a statement to the effect that the chief executive "would have been derelict in his duty if he had not acted."

Before troops were called, there were frequent clashes between veterans and police. In one Policeman George Scott received a fractured skull. His condition was serious, but physicians gave him a good chance to recover.

In one of the earlier melees, terminated by the use of officers' nightsticks, Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, was struck with a brick and slightly hurt. His badge was torn from his coat by a veteran.

Veteran Shot to Death.

The disorder flared up again, more seriously, in a brief encounter in which Huskha was shot to death and another former service man, Eric Carlson of Oakland, Cal., was seriously wounded.

Police had attempted to clear out the occupants of a partly demolished four-story brick building on lower Pennsylvania avenue. They were rushed by hundreds of men. First they tried to stem the attack with night sticks and then began to shoot. At the fire, the attackers fell back.

The first shot was fired by George Shinnault, an officer, who reported to Glassford he had acted in self defense. The police superintendent held he had been "justified."

Then came the troops. In announcing his reasons for calling them, President Hoover mentioned that an examination of a large number of names of the bonus army had disclosed a considerable part of them are not veterans and "many are Communists and persons with criminal records."

Word that soldiers had been summoned.

There was a collision at the entrance to the driveway on the Donato farm, on the Saugerties road Thursday evening, when a car driven by Mrs. Harry J. Caddy of 18 South Sterling street, Kingston, was struck by a car driven by William Smolowitz of 1665 Monroe avenue, Brooklyn.

Troopers' Coons and Flanagan investigated the accident and it was stated that the Caddy car, going north, had turned left and was part way in the driveway when the Smolowitz car, coming south, struck it in the rear end.

Both cars contained a number of people, but the only person reported injured was Augustus Miller of Brooklyn, an occupant of the Smolowitz car, who sustained a cut about the lip and scalp lacerations. She was taken to the Kingston hospital, where her injuries were dressed by Dr. Wax and she was discharged.

No arrests were made.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR ROOSEVELT'S CAMPAIGN

Albany, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—Definite plans for the opening of Governor Roosevelt's campaign trips will be discussed at a conference tonight between the Democratic presidential nominee and his close advisers, Louis M. Howe, political secretary, and James A. Farley, national chairman.

Howe and Farley will be dinner guests at the executive mansion, returning to New York after the conference.

With Mayor Walker's reply to ouster charges before him, Mr. Roosevelt can anticipate what speaking invitations he can accept and what journeys he can make.

Although no official announcement has been made, it is almost certain that Mr. Roosevelt's invasion of Republican territory will commence on August 20, when he will speak to the Ohio State Democratic convention at Columbus. Seven days later he will be in New Jersey at Sea Girt in an effort to win a state President Hoover carried in 1928, two other speaking engagements also are fixed, both for the same day, September 3. One is at Schenectady, N. Y., at noon and the other in the evening at Bridgeport, Conn.

It was understood that preliminary plans for a trip to the Pacific coast and the northwest for early in September have been drawn.

DIED FROM INJURIES BY HIS OWN AUTOMOBILE

Martin Sheinkops of 1 Clark street, Brooklyn, who met with a most unusual accident last Monday, died Thursday evening at the Kingston Hospital from the injuries sustained. Last Monday afternoon he was driving his car along the road when the door suddenly opened and he was thrown to the roadway and the rear wheel of his car passed over him.

He suffered serious injuries and was brought to the hospital, where at first his condition was not considered critical.

An autopsy was performed Thursday night by Dr. John Krom and Dr. Jackson at the instigation of Coroner Conner. Death was due to hemorrhage from a crushed chest. He also sustained a fractured pelvis in addition to the internal injuries.

FOUR KINGSTON PEOPLE HURT IN ALBANY THURSDAY

Mrs. Anna Brodhead of 567 Albany avenue, was cut about the leg and face, when the auto she was driving was in collision with a car driven by Harold Hardner of Albany at Albany on Thursday. Riding with Mrs. Brodhead was her daughter, Phyllis, 14, who was cut on the left leg; Emily Boice, 15, of Smith avenue, who was cut and bruised; and Mrs. Aimee Raichle, also of Kingston, who was cut and bruised. All four were able to leave the hospital in Albany after treatment.

Did Not Represent Her.

Mrs. Margaret Kearney of Spring street, who had three members of the Bahl family, who reside near her, arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, stated today that Daniel J. Murphy did not represent her in police court on Thursday as stated, but that she represented herself.

The hearings in the Bahl cases were adjourned until next week.

County Clerks Elect Officers.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—The State Association of County Clerks re-elected George MacDonald of Batavia president. Mrs. Ellen Miller, Mayville, was named secretary-treasurer. The convention, which was held yesterday, will continue today.

Literacy Tests For New Voters

Superintendent of Schools B. C. Van Ingen has named Principal Frank L. Meagher to have charge of literacy tests for new voters and will conduct the Regents' literacy test and issue certificates of literacy at the Board of Elections office, 71 John street, on Saturday, August 13, from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock in the morning and on Tuesday afternoon, August 22, from 4 to 5 o'clock.

These tests are to be held in compliance with the provisions of the election law entitled Central Registration.

Three witnesses were examined by defense in the Mollenhauer-Ackerman injunction before Supreme Court Judge John T. Loughran Thursday and at the conclusion of that examination an adjournment was taken until September 20 at 10 o'clock. Before the adjourned date the court in company with counsel for the parties will visit the road in question and make an inspection of the premises.

Mr. Hallinan, engineer, and first witness sworn by the defense was again on the stand at the afternoon session and examined in detail as to the physical marks which he observed when he made a survey of the road at the Ackerman property in the town of Rosendale last August.

Court to Visit Arena of Rosendale Road Complication

Washington, July 29 (AP).—A Federal grand jury investigation, to be undertaken at the direction of President Hoover, loomed today in the wake of yesterday's tragic clashes between the police and bonus-demanding veterans and later between Federal troops and the rebellious squatters on Federal property.

While a more or less general exodus from the city appeared to be taking place among the veterans, their families and adherents, and with infantrymen standing guard over the four encampments which had been bathed in tear gas to force the occupants out yesterday and last night, the justice department issued this statement:

"In response to the president's direction to the attorney general to inquire into the recent disorders in the city the supreme court of the district has been requested to lay the subject forthwith before the grand jury now in session."

BROADWAY THEATRE SHOW IMPROVES AS IT GOES ON

The musical comedy offering of Ben Marcus, entitled "The Marcus Scandals of 1932," opened at Broadway Theatre last night before an appreciative audience. The consensus of opinion among those who saw last night's performance as well as this same company's stage offering the first part of the week, was that the new program is a far more enjoyable entertainment feature than the one offered the first three days of this week.

The choruses danced better, and sang better, the comedy proved more laughable, and the songs and dances of the featured players seemed to click with a greater unity and precision. The finest part of the whole show however, and this is no reflection on the performers, is the magnificent scenery and settings to be seen in the various acts. Without doubt, the scenery used by this revue is the most costly and beautiful ever brought into a Kingston theatre.

Along with these costly effects, the show offers a chorus of thirty girls, and twenty other featured players who all work hard for the entertainment of the audience. On the stage, Victor McLaglen is to be seen in a melodramatic talkie called "White Paris Sleeps."

THIRD ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES FROM INJURIES

Oscar Zimmerman, 31, of 38 Fairview avenue, Bergenfield, N. J., died Thursday at the Kingston Hospital from injuries suffered on July 16 in an automobile accident near the Esopus-Lloyd town line when two young women were killed. Zimmerman suffered injuries to his head and had been unconscious since being admitted to the hospital.

The accident happened when a Ford coupe driven by Hillis A. Sanford, of 72 Highland avenue, Tenaflin, N. J., collided with another car and then left the road and crashed into a pole. Miss Angeline Arace of this city and Miss Josephine Tourist of Port Ewen were killed. The two young men had been on their way home when at Port Ewen they picked up Angeline and Mary Arace and Josephine Tourist who were hitch-hiking to Newburgh. Shortly after leaving the three strid concrete at the town line the accident happened.

Sanford was arraigned recently in the town of Lloyd and held on a technical charge of manslaughter for a hearing later.

PAAVO NURMI BARRED FROM RUNNING IN OLYMPICS

Los Angeles, July 29 (AP).—Paavo Nurmi, although keenly disappointed, apparently took his disbarment from the Olympics much more stoically than his teammates and Finnish officials.

"Well, if that's the way they feel about it, there's nothing I can do," Nurmi was quoted as saying by his former trainer, Hugo Quist, of New York. "I had set my heart on creating a new marathon record of 2 hours and 26 minutes, and will seek another opportunity to set an amateur record."

"Four years from now I may be too old for the Olympics, even though I am confident of being re-instated eventually."

Nurmi is 35 years old.

In From Hurley.

Charles Lockwood, 32, of Hurley, was lodged in the county jail on a charge of failure to provide for his family. He was committed by County Judge Frederick Traver pending a hearing.

Between the parties. Up until that time any one desiring to use the road did so without interference.

Mr. Kidd said the road was in need of repair before you arrived at the Ackerman place when he first saw it. The detour on the road was a short strip which turned out and ran 100 or 150 feet parallel to the road and there came back on the road. They frequently used it for passing.

He told Mr. Kidd that the road was a single "path" to the Mollenhauer lands and was used by vehicles before it was repaired by the electric company.

In using the road heavy loads were hauled by Kidd. Three pieces of machinery weighing 30 tons were hauled over the road. Many 12 ton loads were hauled.

After completing the examination of Mr. Kidd the matter was adjourned until September when the matter will be concluded.

Requests Federal Grand Jury Probe

AMERICANS FIND HOPE IN EMPIRE'S TRADE TROUBLES

Ottawa, Ont., July 29 (AP).—American observers at the imperial conference found hope today in several major difficulties encountered by the delegates in their attempt to increase intra-empire trade.

The first bright spot for the Americans, interested in preventing, as far as possible, losses to United States foreign trade as a result of the British negotiations, came in the British proposal made by Stanley Baldwin yesterday.

He warned the delegates of the dominions that the United Kingdom could not jeopardize its trade with other nations for new agreements within the empire.

The two other principal difficulties the empire representatives faced were the problem presented by the variegated and unstable relations of the currencies of the empire's various units and the divergence of standards of industrial products in each, developed through custom and requirements over many years.

Former Premier Baldwin pointed out bluntly that Great Britain still has to depend on non-empire countries for the sale of more than half her own products and this was considered as a warning that Britain could not be expected to give up these foreign markets except in direct ratio to the dominion's willingness to replace them.

Canadian industries, however, have cautioned Premier Bennett not to be "too lenient" in subjecting domestic industry to British competition, so the problem became a choice between protection for the home manufacturers in Canada and the desirability of preference duties on British goods.

Considering the problem of a stabilized intra-empire currency, the conference committee on monetary and financial questions heard that the pound sterling dropped two cents yesterday owing to heavy purchases of the American dollar to pay for stocks and bonds in the New York market. The committee voted to continue its session.

The difficulty with the varying currencies as matters stand within the empire now is that the buyer never knows, when a contract is made for goods, how much he is going to have to pay at the time of delivery. The whole question of preferential tariffs is tied up with fluctuations in the currency which leave the empire importer always guessing what his laid down costs will be.

The only solution of this difficulty possible, as American observers saw it, would be the creation of a governmental agency to finance exports, the agency losing or gaining as the empire currency approached or fell away from parity with the pound.

It has been unofficially suggested that the Bank of England become a Central Empire bank and issue currency against commodities as represented by commercial bills. This proposition is virtually the same as the Goldborough "honest dollar" bill which was defeated in the United States Congress over the protest of the allied farm group.

In the attempt to avoid the third difficulty, the difference in standards of the dominions in industrial products, the committee on industrial standardization has selected H. M. Tory, president of the national research council of Canada as its chairman and begun to compile a coordination of commonwealth specifications for lumber, chemical products, agricultural machinery, boxes, containers and steel structure patterns.

Its recommendations will be of particular interest to United States manufacturers since it presents the question of whether or not Canada, accustomed to American products and standards, could be prevailed upon to agree to accept the standards of Great Britain and the other empire nations.

MUST PAY ALIMONY AND COUNSEL FEES

On application of plaintiff, Julia M. Glover, Judge John T. Loughran has granted alimony and counsel fees pending trial of a divorce action brought by Julia M. Glover against Wendell C. Glover, defendant.

Robert J. Howard, attorney for plaintiff, at special term made application for alimony and counsel fees and the defendant is directed by the court to pay $100 to plaintiff's attorney and $20 weekly for the support and education of the children during pendency of the action. Arthur B. Ewig appeared for defendant. Payment of alimony commences April 24, 1932, and the counsel fee must be paid on or before August 1, 1932. The parties were married at Yonkers May 3, 1920, and at present the defendant resides at Riverhead, L. I.

Colonel Fuller Dead.

Oswego, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—Colonel Leigh A. Fuller, 64, U. S. A., retired, a former first-tenate of General John J. Pershing in Cuba in 1895, is dead. He died suddenly yesterday of acute indigestion at his home.

He was commander of the general hospital at Fort Sheridan during the world conflict and had served in four wars. Upon retirement in 1922 he resided at Winchester, Va., until coming here three years ago. He is survived by his widow and two sons, and a daughter.

No Arrests During Night.

The night passed quietly in police circles and the police did not find it necessary to make any arrests in the city.

Drying Up Process for Walker Denies All Dutches and Sullivan Charges And Assails Seabury In Reply

Three places on Main street, Poughkeepsie, are among those recently visited by Kingston prohibition agents, who made arrests and seizures, acting under search warrants. At 133 Main street they arrested James Robertson and seized alleged apple whiskey and home brew; at 189 they arrested Nicholas Ross and seized alleged whiskey, gin and beer; at 213 they arrested Frank O'Brien, the premises being known as the Sorrento Restaurant, and seized alleged whiskey, gin and beer.

All defendants were held for arraignment before Commissioner Platt in Poughkeepsie.

The agents were also busy in Sullivan county Thursday. At the Franklin Hotel, Catskill, they seized alleged whiskey, gin and beer and arrested Frank Dwyer. At the Western Hotel, in the same town, Henry Wood was arrested and alleged apple and rye whiskey, alcohol, wine, beer and hard cider seized. These arrests were also made under search warrants and the defendants were held for arraignment before Commissioner Connelly in Kingston.

CITIZENS CONDEMNED FOR INTERFERING WITH AGENTS

Malone, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—"Certain citizens" of Alexandria Bay, scene of recent prohibition enforcement disorders, today stood "forcibly condemned" by a federal grand jury for interfering with federal prohibition agents in their line of duty.

But the grand jury which last night assailed the Alexandria Bay villagers in a report to Federal Judge Frederick H. Bryant assailed in the same breath the "over zealous" efforts of prohibition agents who drew the wrath of a mob in the resort town which beat up two members of the raiding party.

The grand jury severely arraigned members of the customs border patrol for brutal "third degree" methods which the jurors learned were used in questioning two witnesses. This part of the grand jury's report, however, had no bearing on the situation at Alexandria Bay.

Leaders at "The Bay" in the complaint which was registered with Washington early this month as a result of two raids and the injury of five persons, including the two beaten agents, were loath to comment on the grand jury report.

LEGION NOT ASSOCIATED WITH BONUS MARCHERS

Spokane, Wash., July 28 (AP).—Henry Stevens, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, believes it "impossible" for him to comment upon the situation of the bonus seekers in Washington.

"The American Legion gave me a mandate at the Detroit convention," he said last night, "to the effect that the legion would not at this time seek payment of the bonus. Therefore the Legion is dissociated from the bonus marchers at Washington."

"I have not had time to familiarize myself with events, which seem concerned with gas bombs, bayonets, tanks and cavalry. Perhaps the coming convention at Portland, Ore., will commit itself on the bonus question. Already we have several petitions for and against immediate payment of the bonus."

JUDGE LOUGHRAN GRANTS DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE.

Judge John T. Loughran has granted a dissolution of the marriage of Pamela Vinton Brown Steinke of Woodstock and Gerhart Steinke. Cleon B. Murray, attorney for petitioner. According to the record, the marriage took place in the town of Hurley on January 24, 1924, and in June of 1925, the husband disappeared and has not been heard from since. By order of the court petitioner is permitted to resume her maiden name.

Receipt of the Walker Reply Meant That a Major Obstacle Which Had Been Delaying the Roosevelt Presidential Campaign Was About to be Cleared.

Walker's removal, as the Roosevelt campaign masters see it, would be a costly affront to the strong eastern Tammany organization. Exonerated of Walker, the managers fear, might be interpreted in the west and south as yielding to Tammany.

Roosevelt, insisting that the impartiality of his action not be questioned, has gone so far as to threaten contempt citation against any individual who attempts to translate his decision in terms of political strategy.

Two legal advisors, John E. Mack and Martin Conboy, both prominent members of the New York bar, will help him review Walker's answer.

Walker's messengers appeared at the executive mansion while Roosevelt was seated on the veranda with Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma. The three representatives deposited two bundles of the printed documents in a chair beside the governor, and handed him two copies in Manila envelopes.

"Here it is," said Thomas P. Andrews, the mayor's secretary, simply, and then departed with his two companions. They were Police Captain Thomas F. O'Connor, Walker's personal aide, and Patrick Hogan, a city hall investigator.

Wife Has Husband Arrested.

Joseph Adin of 245 East Chester street, was arrested today on complaint of his wife, Ethel, who charged him with assault in the third degree. Arraigned later in police court the hearing was adjourned to Saturday morning.

Charges Politics.

"It (the investigation) has conceived, born and fostered in politics," Walker charged. "The desperation growing out of the necessity to offset the failures of the present Republican organization, city, state and national, inspired it."

"Not one witness," he declared, "testified to any wrongful or illegal act of mine during the past six and one half years." The Mayor emphasized that "thousands of witnesses were questioned in private and secret hearings."

And of Seabury, who informed the Governor that Walker as a witness was "neither frank nor truthful" and sought to hinder the Hofstadter investigation, Walker retorted: "My conduct as a witness will stand comparison with his conduct as a lawyer throughout the entire proceeding."

Seabury's conclusion, Walker added, "is the last resort of a certain kind of lawyer without a case."

Governor Silent on Reply.

Governor Roosevelt had nothing to say about the Walker reply, which he requested more than a month ago and by whose delay he had been irritated. He may remove Walker or exonerate him. In either event he probably will give him a public hearing. The governor last February removed Thomas M. Farley, the Tammany sheriff of Kings county, after a hearing.

Receipt of the Walker reply meant that a major obstacle which had been delaying the Roosevelt presidential campaign was about to be cleared. Walker's removal, as the Roosevelt campaign masters see it, would be a costly affront to the strong eastern Tammany organization. Exonerated of Walker, the managers fear, might be interpreted in the west and south as yielding to Tammany.

Says Investigation Was Concealed, Born and Fostered in Politics—Governor Roosevelt Is Silent on Reply.

Albany, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt pondered today the indignant reply of James J. Walker, mayor of New York, to Samuel Seabury's complaint that he was unfit to remain in office.

BEAUTY CONTEST TO PLACE
STRESS ON "PERSONALITY"

Galveston, Texas.—"Personal-ity" and not puletrude must be the chief asset of the winner of Galveston's annual bathing beauty show this year.

They used to select the "beauty queen of the universe" and had entries from all over the world.

This time, on August 6 and 7, they will select "Miss Personality," and girls from only the states of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma will compete.

"It has been our experience," says

Manager George Mitchell, "that very few girls have what might be termed perfect forms."

"The judging then, will be based upon personality, beauty, grace and form. Personality covers a wide range of qualifications, and our interpretation of the word includes character and intelligence."

Business Certificate.

Fannie E. Kidd of Rifton has had a certificate with the county clerk stating that she is conducting a business at Rifton under the name of Hollywood Service Station. The business is general gasoline service and repair work.

News of Today
In Kingston

The people living in the vicinity of Public School No. 2 should be supplied with gas masks of some description because there is a continual smoke screen or dust screen, as you like it, being laid by the men who are sand blasting the building.

No, they're not blowing it up! Just merely cleaning the brick.

The operation creates dust in an enormous quantity. Consequently, all the inhabitants of the neighborhood are sneezing and coughing. The housewife dusts the furniture fifty times a day, so that now the stain is worn off and the natural wood is coming through. This dust gets in even though the windows are closed. Can you imagine having windows closed this weather?

Well that's what the folks are going through in that neighborhood that dusty neighborhood, where you cough and sneeze and where it's bad for your health.

Complaints have been sent into the Board of Education and Board of Health, but all their members must be on a vacation for nothing has been done to prevent further dust. Maybe it's because none of these members live in the neighborhood.

Apparently Kingston is the only city that allows this nuisance to go on unabated. There is a prevention for this and the action of either board should be started immediately. People's health is in danger of being impaired, and when health is at stake all precautions should be taken.

It's a wonder that the working men can stand the dust of its heavy yellow nature, which comes from the yellow paint that for years has covered the bricks. The building is being restored to the natural brick color which in the future will save the Board of Education plenty of money.

Stop the dust.

All's quiet on the western front. The Bonus Army came to blows with the law at last and it paid the life of one of its members, but all's quiet now.

The death toll was one and the injured 50 but the damage done to the hopes and spirits of the Bonus marchers could not be determined.

There's nothing else to do now, gentlemen, but get out. The Army's there on horseback. If the soldiers were on foot it wouldn't be so bad. You could tolerate a man standing on your toe but not a horse.

The 2,000 that are left will get their honorable discharge today.

During the trade-in sale old tires, no matter what their condition, may be traded in and an allowance of 25 per cent from list price of the new U. S. tires will be allowed. In addition of the 25 per cent allowance for old tires there will be no government tax charged customers on tires purchased during the sale. The new type four and six ply United States tires are included in the sale.

FOR SYDNEY BURGLARS

Sydney, Australia. (AP)—Curfew law has been brought into operation against burglars by Judge Sheridan of the local criminal court.

Instead of sending certain classes of thieves to cells, he releases them on bond not to be on the streets after 11 o'clock at night.

"This is no hardship," says the judge, "but it may remove these men from the temptation of stealing under cover of darkness."

CITY DWELLERS IN
BACK-TO-FARM MOVEDisillusioned Youths Return to Old Home Nest.

St. Louis, Mo.—Throughout the Middle West there is a steady back-to-the-farm trek of youths, who, a few years ago, sought fame and fortune in the cities, according to Wood Netherland, president of the Federal Land bank here.

Economic conditions have forced young men and women, who were drawn by the glamor of the city and its high wages, to return to the farm with a sad story to tell the home folks, Netherland said.

Elderly persons, who were intent on spending their last years surrounded by the comforts and conveniences incident to city life, have been shorn of their incomes and have returned to their former homes.

The present city farm movement is perhaps the broadest and most far-reaching in the history of the Middle West, Netherland believes. The idea, which for many years had been floating to the city, began ebbing back to the farm more than a year ago, he said.

Since then, industrial workers, either definitely out of employment, or in prospect of a layoff, have joined the trek in constantly increasing number, records of the Federal Land bank show.

Many city people, realizing that farms may now be purchased for a fraction of the price asked a few years ago, have gone to the country with the idea of profiting by the present depressed land prices, he said. More than 40 per cent of the current farm sales are to city people, he added.

The movement, according to Netherland, results from the first instinct of man, self-preservation. Faced with hunger, or becoming a ward of charity, city dwellers are moving out where they get a plot of land upon which to raise food.

Ancient Game Unearthed
at Ur of the Chaldees

London.—Archeological finds of great interest at Ur of the Chaldees have been reported here by C. Leonard Woolley of the British museum. University of Pennsylvania joint expedition.

One object dug up was a broken carved stone, part of a gaming board suitable for the playing of a game similar to "snakes and ladders," in which dice are used and which long has been popular in England. The game, Woolley thinks, continued in use for thousands of years after its invention. The find was made in a building dating from the Fourth century B. C.

Less than two feet beneath the present surface of the ground at Ur the party found a small bowl of polished soapstone decorated with five bulls carved in relief. The excavators believe that the bowl must have been at least 30 feet beneath the old surface. It dates from about 2400 B. C. when stone carving had reached its most advanced stage. Each bull has over its back an ear of barley, symbolizing the agricultural wealth of Mesopotamia. The bowl is the finest piece of carving yet secured at Ur and will be exhibited with the gaming board here.

Woolley, who is accompanied by his wife, will return to Ur in the autumn. He has previously dug up tangible evidence of the existence of the Babylonian cities and is in search of more treasures for the expedition.

Parted 52 Years, Twins
Keep Vow to Dress Alike

London.—Margaret and Agnes were twins.

They looked alike and they thought alike. They agreed that all their lives they would dress alike.

That was when Margaret and Agnes were young.

Then, fifty-two years ago, came marriage—and separation. Margaret became Mrs. Miller of Holland Grove, Heswall, Cheshire. Agnes became Mrs. Clement of Dunedin, New Zealand.

The twins never met again, but they faithfully kept their promise to dress alike.

They discussed their dresses in regular letters and exchanged photographs to show that the similarity was being maintained.

Even their spectacles and watch chains were alike.

Now Mrs. Miller has just died at the age of eighty-six.

Historic Lafayette Elm
Cut Down in Road Work

Worthington, Mass.—Another historic landmark passed when the ancient Lafayette elm tree was cut down here recently to make way for part of the new Huntingdon-Worthington state road. The stately elm towered over the spot where General Lafayette was received by the townspeople in 1825 while en route to Boston to attend the dedication of Bunker Hill monument. Nearby, on the site of the town library, stood the tavern where Lafayette stopped overnight.

Dog Held in Trap 20
Days Till Leg Drops Off

Willows, Calif.—Sandy, big shepherd dog belonging to Mrs. Ellis Haines, is home after a 20-day absence, during which he stood in a trap until the leg, which had been caught, fell off and he was able to drag himself home. He is practically a skeleton, but is expected to recover.

Dr. Lehner Will Open Office Here

Dr. Jack Lehner, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lehner, of this city, will open his office for the practice of medicine and surgery on Monday, August 1, at 294 Broadway, near Orchard street.

Dr. Lehner graduated from Kingston High School in the class of 1922, and for the past ten years has been at college and after graduation, in New York hospitals, equipping himself for his life's work. After high school graduation, he attended Cornell University, where in three and a half years he won his B. A. degree. He then spent four years in Yale University Medical School, where he received his M. D. degree. After graduation, he spent two years in Lincoln Hospital, New York, rotating in medicine and surgery, ending his hospital service recently as house surgeon. He has also practiced obstetrics in two well-known maternity institutions in New York, the Livingston Hospital and Herwind Maternity Clinic.

Dr. Lehner has leased the real-estate property at 294 Broadway, which has been remodeled and completely equipped for his use. His office hours will be from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9. His telephone call will be 4442.

LIGHT WEIGHT WOOL BEST FOR SUMMER

Days When It Is Only Practical Dress to Wear.

There are certain summer days when the only really practical dress to wear is one of light-weight woolen—a fact which governs a good deal of the designing of clothes that Paris is doing right now.

Making clothes for women in Paris—where it is never particularly warm—is one thing; they've found out; while making dresses which American women must wear in town even during the hottest days of summer, is another thing.

Clothes which look well in town, which are lightweight enough for a hot day, and which do not easily wrinkle, are difficult to make at any time. It is probably this year for the first time that Paris has been successful at the complicated task.

Wool lace is one of the materials that has turned out especially well for hot weather wear. Paris makes it into all sorts of clothes for summer wear—skirt-and-jacket suits, sports dresses, afternoon gowns—even little tailored coats.

STRIPED BLOUSE

By EMILIE NICHOLAS

In fashion's realm a hue and cry for stripes has been raised, which is increasing rather than abating. The blouse of striped silk, linen or wool, is an outgrowth of this vogue. The model pictures shows the popular diagonal fastening and the collarless neckline. In some instances the new striped blouses fasten in double-breasted fashion with two rows of military looking nickel buttons. Equally as smart is the blouse of striped material, which has a single-row fastening of metal buttons extending up to the neck.

FLASHES FROM PARIS

Vogue for fancy-mesh eye-veils is developing. Evening fashions are again highlighting lustrous satins. Rehoux and Agnes are making feather turbans for their clientele. Cire peau d'ange jersey is a favored material for evening gowns. Cottons and linens play significant roles in French fashions. High waistlines and skirts which show the heels is the trend for formal gowns. A purplish cast makes reds and blues look new for fall.

Youth and Beauty Sound Note in Summer Styles

Midseason fashions now being shown spell youth and all the beauty to be found in it.

They are bringing out the widened shoulder-line and tight hips in a very pronounced manner; on the other hand, the waistline has gone back to its natural position, with a tendency for the belt to lower at the back.

Belts in leather and metal are tubular in shape, many are merely a continuation of the draping corsage.

Dress and Jacket Are Suitable for Traveling

Traveling on the train isn't the bane it used to be. A smart little dress and jacket ensemble of sheer wool or chiffon, checked, striped or printed in dark tones and conservative manner, will do admirably for the trip. It will also serve for street wear upon arrival.

Tailored gowns and robes or pajama ensembles of some dark-hued, uncrushable and cool silk are excellent for the overnight journey.

New Ring Is Ornamental and Deadly Weapon, Too

Beware of pretty white fingers! They may be wearing one of the newest creations of the French jewel makers, a ring that is meant for useful as well as ornamental purposes.

It comes in the shape of a seal. Press a tiny stem at one side and two small but deadly blades spring out, forming a terrible weapon.

Phonics for Shepherds

The tests of the domestic Lapps who take their reindeer herds to graze in Sweden will in future be fitted with telephones. The Lapps may then phone each other regarding grazing conditions and the state of the herds generally.

He was shrewd, thrifty and hungry. Entering the Bruahville grocery store, he said to the clerk: Hungry Lad—Give me a dime's worth of cheese and crackers. Clerk—Anything else? Hungry Lad—Well, I'll trade the cheese and crackers for sardines. Clerk—All right. Anything else? Hungry Lad—Well, I'd like to trade the sardines for potted meat. Clerk—All right. Hungry Lad—Thanks. I must be going. Clerk—You haven't paid me for the potted meat. Hungry Lad—I traded the sardines for it. Clerk—But you haven't paid me for the sardines. Hungry Lad—I traded the cheese and crackers for it. Clerk—You haven't paid for the cheese and crackers. Hungry Lad—But you still have them. Good-day.

MICHIGAN AND NEW YORK HAVE BIG PEAR CROPS.

Ithaca, N. Y., July 30 (AP)—New York and Michigan are the only states expected to show an increase in pear production this fall, says the New York State Department of Agriculture at Cornell University, in a report on prospective harvest conditions.

This year's pear crop in New York state is expected to run around 1,724,000 bushels, compared with last year's production of 800,000. Michigan, which last year sent to the market something like 500,000 bushels, this year is expected to furnish 669,000 bushels.

In the face of a generally below-normal peach crop, the department adds, New York state is expected to harvest in the neighborhood of 257,000 bushels, a normal crop, the prospective condition being but 14 per cent. below last year's production.

DISCOVER RENO IS LITTLE DIFFERENT

Divorce Seekers Find It Just Another Town.

Reno, Nev.—Although distinctive in many respects, Reno probably is the town of more misapprehensions than any city of similar size on earth.

Divorce seekers, coming here, are invariably surprised. Many have resolved not to do the silly things they think customary here only to learn after arrival that the acts are not customary after all.

The old story of divorcees kissing the pillars of the Washoe county courthouse after receiving a final decree is typical. A long time ago a photographer with need of an unusual picture posed a girl kissing the marble post and since then common belief has had it that the farewell smack on a shaft of cold stone is expected.

As a matter of fact, the courthouse pillar never has been kissed except as a stunt arranged by a photographer.

Similar is the tale of divorcees standing on the "Bridge of Sighs," across the rushing Truckee river, which passes through town, and tossing their wedding rings into the clear icy waters. Maybe something like that happened once but most observers in America's "Divorce Capital" doubt it.

A bit of weight was added to the ring story when a group of small boys decided to capitalize on the curiosity of tourists. The lads bought a quantity of cheap rings and then, in front of tourists plunged into the Truckee. After stalling around a bit they came up with an assertedly "discarded wedding ring."

Such souvenirs commanded fancy prices—ranging from 50 cents to $1. The boys profited and the tourists didn't know the difference. And so the story spread.

And, although Reno has a national reputation for being an open town, it is no wetter in proportion than most centers of population. True, gambling is in the open, but saloons have "peep-holes" and barred doors the same as in other cities.

New Gas Wells Are Seen as Aid to Prosperity

Geneva, N. Y.—Discovery of huge natural gas fields, the exact extent of which still is unknown, has set Finger Lakes residents dreaming of a gigantic new industry.

Gas production in counties to the south of here already has drawn the sting from the business depression in that section. Wells in one county alone produce 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

But the Finger Lakes region, of which Geneva is the center, has one advantage over neighboring fields. All producing wells so far drilled in this vicinity have been in sandy soil. Most of them have "come in" with terrific force.

Oil companies and stock promotion concerns have placed nearly half the farms in central New York under lease.

Optimistic reports by geologists, combined with the high percentage of paying wells drilled in this vicinity, have combined to encourage the belief in some quarters that the Finger Lakes region will shortly supply gas to the entire north Atlantic seaboard.

Medical Quacks in Year

Chicago.—Forty-two medical quacks have been convicted in a year and hundreds of others have been forced to quit practicing, according to a report recently made public by J. E. Edwards, chief of the state department of registration and education.

The department records show that 627 cases of medical quackery were investigated during the year. Sufficient evidence was gathered to issue 104 warrants for arrest. Forty-two convictions were obtained; 55 cases are still pending; four were dismissed; two were quashed, and one case not processed.

In addition, Mr. Edwards pointed out, the department obtained signed affidavits from 76 quacks that they had been practicing medicine illegally and would quit voluntarily to avoid prosecution.

Prince's Complaint: "It No Longer Pays"

Paris.—"It no longer pays to be a prince—not in Europe at least. Europeans are too used to them."

This is the rather wistful comment attributed to Prince Nicholas of Greece, exiled uncle of the exiled "king" of Greece and husband of Grand Duchess Helen, sister of the exiled Russian "emperor," Grand Duke Cyril.

Prince Nicholas has just opened an exhibition of his paintings here at the Galerie Bernheim Jeune, but he has taken pains to conceal his name.

Rhine, N. Y., July 29 (AP).—"Conditional contracts" under which farmers may market their dairy machinery of the Dairymen's League Association, will be submitted to all farmers in New York state within the next 39 days. Rowland M. Sharpe, chairman of the emergency committee of the New York milk shed, has announced.

"More than 2,400 meetings have been held and other mediums utilized," Sharpe said, to explain the plan to farmers. He added that the program had been opposed "for selfish reasons" by dealers who recognized in the movement to organize farmers "a disadvantage to themselves."

Mussolini Sees Fascist Spirit Girdling Globe

BELIEVES ITALY WORLD'S MODEL IN GOVERNMENT

By JOHN EVANS.

Rome (AP)—Mussolini proudly matches the spirit of fascism march around the world. Being premier of Italy, he must directly inspire political movements in other countries, but he always holds up Italy as an example of how the proper kind of "revolution" can save a country. His words often seem addressed to all the rest of the world. "They or us," he said in a message to his black shirts at the beginning of his ninth year in power, "the world as a battlefield between his revolutionary ideas and other forms of government."

Fights Reflect Fascism. He sees already, in a dozen countries, outbreaks of turbulent men, frequently like his black shirts who are fought in the streets, knife in one hand, gun in the other, crushing the disorder Italy's feeble government could not or did not control. Then he tossed out the government.

Hitlerism in Germany and Austria, similar movements in Finland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium and Holland, stern "duty" killings in Japan and the fight of Australia's "White Guard" against radicalism—all these encourage the Duce's followers to think the Italian idea will sweep the world.

The hand of revolutionary thought, which may everywhere soon become action, stretches clear across Europe from south to north.

Hitler and his brown shirts are ardent disciples of Mussolini. Hitler was expected to visit the Duce last year, but Mussolini felt it might seem bad form to encourage an openly a revolution in Germany and Hitler promptly found that work would keep him at home.

Once Mussolini was quoted as saying, "Fascism is not an article of exportation." He denied that, two years ago, and substituted the phrase: "Fascism in idea, doctrine and realization is universal."

Stresses Spiritual Ideas.

"We are struggling against a world in its decline," he said in one of his messages. "Once the battleground of fascism was Italy, now it is the world and everywhere one fights for or against fascism."

Fascism, before and for some time after Mussolini's famous march on Rome, October 28, 1922, was a war against the struggle to save the country from anarchy, riots, communism and terror.

THE PROPHET OF FASCISM

Benito Mussolini has found in the political struggles of other countries increasing evidence of the spread of the Italian idea of the fascist state. This striking photograph shows him pressing a button to inaugurate a new government undertaking.

Today, says Mussolini, in a definition soon to be published in the Encyclopaedia Italiana, "fascism is a religious conception" and "in addition to being a system of government is also, and above all, a system of thought."

Discipline is a cardinal principle. Several millions in the various fascist organizations take an oath of allegiance to the Duce, pledging their lives to defend him and fascism.

Mussolini having disciplined his men, disciplines parliament until it is merely a counselor, almost automatically approving all measures, initiating almost none. Lately he has turned it to the less tangible aspects of fascism.

Takes Own Medicine. He settled the long quarrel be-spread rapidly and the streets were lined with curious onlookers. The troops moved to the first camp amid salutes of mingled blows and cheers from the former soldiers. Glassford shouted to the veterans: "Those who don't want to fight move across the street."

A large number did but most remained to face the consequences. As the cavalry passed the main concentration of veterans the troopers drew their sabers and non-commissioned officers held pistols pointed upward.

The troopers then wheeled about, clearing the streets of veterans and onlookers. Simultaneously the infantrymen, with rifles on guard and bayonets fixed, rushed toward the area occupied by the bonus-marchers. They drove the men across the litter-strewn block half full of shanty dwellings. Other groups, out of the line of the charge, did not budge.

The soldiers donned gas masks in a half hush. Gas bombs shot forward and the khaki line rushed. A blue haze of gas enveloped them and the veterans scurried to safety.

Police and thousands of spectators who had thronged to the scene began weeping from effects of the tear gas. Others along the avenue slammed shut doors and closed transoms to escape it.

Torch Applied by Soldiers. As the veterans cleared out, the torch was applied by soldiers. Flames speedily razed the shacks and tents which had given shelter to the bonus-seekers.

Ambulances rushed to the scene to take to hospitals a number of injured and gas-ravaged persons, but the troops moved unhesitatingly to another encampment nearby.

Here resistance was met. As the tear gas bombs hit the ground veterans snatched them up and shot them back at the infantry. The cavalry then rode pell-mell into the bonus army ranks. Several were injured by hoofs and saber slaps as they sought to unhorse the troopers, but they were driven off in no time.

Without halting, the troops marched another few blocks to the third camp and with little difficulty ousted the radical wing of the veterans army headed by John Pace of Detroit. Many had left before the soldiers arrived. The remainder tarried not.

Here the troops stopped to eat an open-air dinner. That finished, orders came to move forward—this time to the Anacostia encampment, last big stronghold of the veterans. In the pitch dark night they marched the six miles to the camp. Word of their coming had gone ahead. An assembly of the veterans was called and told of Edward Atwell, a divisional commander of the Anacostia group, that if an attempt were made to "stampede our women and children" the bonus seekers would try to "kill the first man that steps over the line."

But he urged that every effort be made to avoid trouble. Evacuation of women and children began.

The troops arrived, led by General MacArthur. At 10:09 p. m. they began moving against the encampment. As they crossed the bridge separating Anacostia from Washington, the infantry began hurling tear bombs.

They were thrown all about to dislodge a huge sightseeing crowd that impeded progress. Women and children ran screaming.

Horses at a walk, the cavalry descended a slope into the camp with infantry behind. A number of the huts housing the veterans were seen to burst into flames. Soldiers said the veterans fired them. The veterans placed the blame on the military.

A group of men gathered at the center of the camp. Atwell shouted: "Give way, boys, give way. They've got the tanks and you haven't got a chance in hell!"

Powerful searchlights from fire trucks played as the cavalry lined up for action. This was delayed, however, by the arrival of a courier from Atwell.

Women and Children Leave

He asked that the advance be postponed 15 minutes to permit the remaining women and children to leave. Brigadier General Miles, in active command, promised 30 minutes, meanwhile deploying the cavalry in a semi-circle around the camp. During the wait, General Miles told newspapermen he had received orders "from above" to defer action until today but within minutes this decision was changed. The infantry advanced with fixed bayonets, between the burning shanties. The veterans retreated with no attempt at resistance.

In trucks and passenger cars or trudging wearily afoot, they poured out with whatever of their possessions they had managed to salvage.

Many camped on private property; others departed toward Washington, and a number prepared to leave for their homes.

Those who expected to spend the night in the Capitol were disappointed, for the bridge was barred by a solid line of soldiers. Glassford, the police head, said he had issued orders to keep the men out of Washington for the time being.

The glare of the fire could be seen in downtown Washington, even at the White House, as flames virtually razed the entire encampment.

Two hundred veterans moved for the night into Arlington county, Virginia, across the Potomac river from Washington, but Sheriff Howard Fields promptly announced he would ask Governor Pollard for troops "if any of them stay more than 24 hours."

The situation brought T. McCall Frazier, Virginia director of motor vehicles, who is in charge of state police, to Alexandria under orders from the Governor. He said he had directed a small number of state police to "watch the situation."

A group of veterans also departed for Johnstown, Pennsylvania, presumably to join Waters and accept the promised welcome of that city's mayor if they desired to establish headquarters there.

Calling out the troops did not constitute martial law. It was explained this was avoided by President Hoover's instructions to turn over all prisoners to civil authorities, and for the troops to act under orders from the responsible city heads.

The attacks on police were attributed by the White House and by Waters himself to the radical wing of the veterans army. The White House said the secret service had received this information.

The swiftly moving developments of the crowded day began at 10 a. m. when treasury department employees arrived at the encampment on lower Pennsylvania avenue to begin demolition work.

Waters urged his men to evacuate their billets peacefully but most of them refused.

Despite this attitude, the order was given to clear the site and police pitched in. Most of the veterans left quietly. A few had to be carried out by force, and these were placed under arrest.

Ordered to Evacuate Federal Property.

Then Attorney General Mitchell issued a sweeping order for evacuation of all federal property. He warned that federal jails were available for anyone who proved rebellious.

Veterans from other camps began arriving and the day's dramatic proceedings got under way.

For the most part, the residents of Washington went about their business as usual, depending on newspapers for their information.

In late afternoon, however, several thousand whose day's work had ended thronged to lower Pennsylvania avenue to watch the eviction operation. Others later flocked to Anacostia.

Many in both groups suffered as seriously as the men being evicted. Tear bombs hit on all sides, and spectators collapsed under the fumes, causing added difficulty for the hard-worked ambulance corps. None, however, was gravely hurt.

Financial And Commercial

New York, July 29 (AP)—Bulls kept the whip hand in the stock market today, in the face of further surges of profit taking.

The market followed yesterday's pattern by starting a little in the first hour, sweeping upward in the middle of the day in active trading, and easing off a little from the heat in the early afternoon. The market has now forged ahead for eight out of the past nine sessions.

Bulls led today's upswing, with advances of 2 points or more in such issues as Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, New Haven, Southern Pacific and others. These gains were not fully maintained, however. American Telephone, American Water Works, U. S. Steel Preferred, Johns Man-

France Wins First Two Tennis Matches

Paris, July 29 (AP)—France swept the first two matches of its series against the United States in defense of the Davis Cup today. Henri Cochet, defeating Wilmer Allison, 5-7, 7-5, 7-5, 6-2, after Jean Borotra had scored a surprise victory over Ellsworth Vines, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

Allison, who had a gamut battle against odds in an attempt to win America's hopes for regaining the cup but weakened as the match progressed while Cochet, playing easily and effortlessly, improved with each stroke.

Several times Allison broke through the little Frenchman's service to cheer the American onlookers, but every time, except in the first set, Cochet came back to even the set.

With the doubles defeat, that of Vines a stunning upset, the United States practically lost its chance to regain the historic international tennis trophy as it must sweep the final three matches to win and Cochet is a strong favorite to defeat Vines when he meets the American youngster in the final match Sunday.

Borotra Defeats Vines

Paris, July 29 (AP)—Jean Borotra, French tennis veteran, today sprang a stunning upset as he defeated Ellsworth Vines, Jr., of the United States team, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 in the first match of the Davis Cup final between the United States and France.

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION COMPLETED

Washington, July 29 (AP)—Its reorganization completed with the selection of Charles A. Miller, Utica, N. Y., as the last director, the $3,800,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation plunged ahead today with its relief program.

Announcement of new loans, pending completion of the directorate, was believed imminent. Illinois already has gotten $3,000,000 from the $300,000,000 fund for relief advanced to states, and numerous applications are pending.

Miller, a Republican banker and lawyer who has been regional committee chairman for the reconstruction corporation in the second federal reserve district, including New York, will be elected president of the relief agency. An Ohio democrat, Albee Pomeroy, is scheduled to be chairman.

Strength of the rails was accompanied by revival of rumors that the Reconstruction Finance Corp. might make the carriers a substantial loan to renovate their equipment. A tangible development was announced of a meeting of rail executives August 11 to work out plans for further economies.

Continued scattered evidences of improvement in commodity prices helped the movement in shares. A large producer announced an advance in cement prices in the east for the first time since 1929, following recent advances in the middle west. Foreign copper prices were firmer. Alcohol stocks were bid up in response to reports of improved earnings. U. S. Industrial Alcohol had a small profit in the first half, against a deficit of more than $500,000 in the same period of last year. Another encouraging oil statement appeared in Continental's report. That company earned 34 cents a share in the second quarter, against the large deficit of more than $4,000,000 in the same period of last year. Bethlehem's preferred dividend omission was expected, and the ability to concern to show a profit from operations, before charges, was somewhat better than expected. The weekly mercantile reviews were again fairly cheerful, reporting that retail trade was being well maintained for this season of the year.

Humility Good or Bad

Humility is good when it stimulates, it is bad when it paralyzes, the active powers of a man. It may do either. We have noble examples of humility as a stimulus; the sense of weakness making a man all the more ardent to use all the strength he has. But if conscious weakness causes a man to believe that it makes no difference whether he works or not, then his humility is his curse.—Phillips Brooks

The story of "Romeo and Juliet" was not originated by Shakespeare. The story was very popular in Italy before Shakespeare wrote his famous tragedy. It is possible that the original plot was taken from life.

RETIRED DETECTIVE SEES MANY CHANGES

Says New York Better City Than in Old Days

New York.—The jewelry thefts and pickpocket rackets are slipping in New York. The old-time penny-wheeler, whose trick of snatching fake stones for good ones cost jewelers many a dollar in the good old days, has almost disappeared. And the old school of pickpockets, many of whom were so proficient that they were hard to catch, have been succeeded by youthful thieves whose work is crude and amateurish by comparison.

"Gauges checks are the leading racket these days," according to former Detective Ernest L. Moore. "Banks, jewelers and stores are the victims of this type of confidence game, and the merchant is the most defenseless against it, for in most cases, rather than lose a sale, he will take a chance."

Times Have Changed.

Mr. Moore has just retired from the police department after 25 years of service. Practically all of it was spent in the detective division, and on the Fifth Avenue squad, the group of plain clothes men especially detailed to the midtown section to guard against confidence men and pickpockets.

"Fifth Avenue today isn't the street it was when the Fifth Avenue squad was formed," the old veteran crime chaser said. "For one thing, 75 per cent of the town's jewelry establishments are now located in the midtown area, and the safeguards have been greatly increased. If you are accustomed to thinking of Maiden Lane as the center of New York's jewelry section, you are behind the times, for, with the exception of the silversmiths, most jewelers have moved up town to office suites."

"Then, too, most of the better known thieves no longer operate here, for dips and confidence men are known to the police, who pick them up on sight. The Baumes act, too, which sends a fourth felony offender to prison for life, has no doubt done much to scare away the pickpockets."

On Famous Cases.

Moore, who was born in Pennsylvania, joined the police department in 1907, and, with the exception of two years during the war, when he served as lieutenant in the navy, he has been continuously a member of the city's finest.

During his quarter of a century in the detective division he has worked on many famous cases, but a lifetime of keeping his own counsel makes it difficult to get him to reminisce. He is a slender, quiet looking individual, whom you'd take at first sight for a conservative business man. But one look from his penetrating blue eyes and you understand why a crime was put in the crime racket during the years he operated on Fifth Avenue between Forty-fourth and Forty-eighth streets.

Moore was chief arresting officer when the Gondorf brothers, Charles and Fred, who were called the wire tapping kings for their swindling operations, were started to Sing Sing. With this arrest the huncs syndicate that embraced the United States, Canada, and England was broken up.

Hunt Lost Currency

Buried Half Century

Fayette, Mich.—Summer in the upper peninsula of Michigan has again revived talk of renewing search for the buried wealth amassed by Alphonse Bellaguetta, on the outskirts of Fayette, more than fifty years ago.

Bellaguetta, a French-Canadian, came here in 1872 when Fayette was in its prime. He saw opportunity in the fact that the sale of liquor was prohibited in the town and set up a saloon on the beach, two miles away.

He prospered and did not believe in banks. His wife discovered that he had buried much of his fortune, but she could not find the hiding place. Regularly since then searchers have sought in vain for the treasure.

"Resurrection" Results

in Charge of Perjury

Orville, Calif.—Because Ernest Fultz of Palga came back to life after he was reported dead, Dan W. Johnson, seventeen, is under arrest here charged with perjury. In 1928 Johnson assertedly told the county grand jury he saw H. H. Hunter and J. R. Griffin carry Fultz's body out of a cabin after a quarrel and throw it into the Feather river. Fultz reappeared alive and the arrest followed.
